THREAT INTELLIGENCE REORT CHURCH VANDALISM PRIOR TO TURNING POINT USA EVENT (HUNTSVILLE, ALABAMA), 14 OCT 25

SYNOPSIS

The Movement Church, located at 1469 Browns Ferry Rd. Madison, AL 35758, sponsored an event by Turning Point USA, scheduled for 9 Oct 2025. On

The church front door area was spraypainted in red paint (Graffiti) by unknown SUBJECT(S) stating: “...Brian Dawson is the Antichrist, beware his falsehoods...” This occurred between 1700, 7 Oct 25-0800, 8 Oct 25. The event was scheduled for 1800, 9 Oct 25.

There is no mention of suspicious activity detected prior to or during the event. First public announcement of this event appeared on 25 Sep 25 on a Facebook post by Moms for Liberty, Alabama, posted in IMAGERY below. There are no media reports of any reportable incidents.

NOTE A prior graffiti incident occurred in Huntsville during June 2025. Appearing to be similar imagery red paint, graffiti, and writing style as this church. Rep. Marjorie Taylor Greene (R-Ga.) and other conservative groups on Saturday. Greene is scheduled to speak on Saturday at the Moms for Liberty — Madison County's annual dinner at The Brewer's Cooperative at Stovehouse. The graffiti read, “F MTG and M4L. Shoot those crackers.” The graffiti targeted Green and Moms4 Liberty and white people (slur) with firearm attacks.

In continuing, the church incident, listed sources below have quoted Seth Adgate and his wife Lori, the senior pastors. As combined, their statements. They believe this was a targeted attack. The graffiti on the front of the church said, “Bryan Dawson serves the Antichrist” and “Beware his falsehoods” — both referencing the Turning Point event’s keynote speaker, who is also the CEO of 1819 News.

“It doesn’t even really make sense to me what the messages are...Lori Adgate said. “I honestly wish they would’ve just contacted us because I would love to hear the heart behind what they’re saying.” Seth agreed, saying there were many more constructive ways they could’ve gone about this.

“They could’ve written it on a piece of paper and taped it to the door. They could’ve called the office. It’s public knowledge what our phone number is,” he said. “The only people that attack churches like this with spray paint all over are demons. That’s who wants to attack a church.”

The Adgates couldn’t remove the spray paint themselves, so Erich Nelson, who owns a local pressure washing company called Under Pressure, came to help. Nelson has a special connection to the Movement Church. He was a member for several years.

“To attack with hatred on a place of love — it’s really not going to do anything but more galvanize the love here and the mission to serve our community,” Nelson said. Unfortunately, the Adgates didn’t catch whoever did this with their security cameras. They believe this act is just indicative of rising tensions in a country that becomes more polarized every day.

“Unfortunately, we have seen growing hostility toward those who stand firm in their convictions,” Lori said. “Our hope and prayer is that this moment reminds us all that disagreement does not have to lead to destruction. “Our world is broken,” she added. “As a mother myself, I am very concerned. But at the same time, we’re not backing down.”

Pastor Adgate also commented during a second media interview:
Senior Pastor Seth Adgate says the graffiti appears to target the church’s conservative beliefs and upcoming event. “This is kind of coming with the territory here lately. They flipped the lid, and we’re outside protesting, probably about 50 people. So, it’s not something we want, but it comes with the territory now,” said Adgate. Despite the damage, Adgate says the church will not cancel the event and plans to respond to hate with grace. He hopes to focus on peaceful dialogue rather than division.

“My family and I were members of this church for several years. They’ve always poured into me and my family and my kids, so the least I can do is come out here and help them in this ridiculous situation,” said Nelson.

Nelson says the incident serves as a reminder that mutual respect is key in times of disagreement. “I respect you enough that we can sit down and talk about it. We should have enough dignity, respect, and love for each other that we can get it figured out together. The Adgates say they’re increasing security ahead of Thursday night’s Turning Point event.¹

The Madison County Sheriff’s Office is asking anyone with information about the vandalism to call its detectives at 256-533-8820 or 256-722-7181. Sheriff Kevin Turner released this statement in response to the vandalism: “Acts of vandalism and intimidation have no place in our community. Every person, regardless of their beliefs or affiliations, deserves to feel safe where they worship, work, or gather. We will not tolerate this type of behavior in Madison County. Our detectives are working diligently to identify those responsible and ensure they are held accountable. To the citizens of Madison County, please know that this kind of conduct is unacceptable, and we will use every available resource to bring those responsible to justice. This is not who we are as a community.

KEY TAKEAWAYS

Huntsville Alabama, located in Madison County. Is a fast-growing city it contains several terrorist, anarchist groups which have several pragmatic and symbolic targets. As media reports proliferate, these organizations are also heavily active locally and nationwide, with escalating direct-action attacks and violence. Christians, Churches, Clergy and Congregations have been targeted heavily. It is noted that the church and the 1819 News organizations are self-identified as espousing conservative social and political values, alas the targeting.

ANALYSIS

In Obscura assesses with HIGH confidence that Christians, Churches, Clergy, Congregations, and organizations are HIGH RISK targets for the escalating violence since at least the Roe v. Wade SCOTUS decision. The Red-Green Alliance, the mutual aid concept of communists and Islamic terrorist organizations active across the US and Europe have been rabidly ant-Christian. The proliferation of genocide, arson, bombings have for almost ten years continue to climb.

Among myriad proactive steps that can be taken are recommended based on factual church occurrences:

The discovered and reported target surveillance and suspicious activities are in open media. However, 90 percent of these and other pre-attack indicators go undetected because few if any have been trained. Few churches have professional, in-house, trained, and certified and armed security officers.

Churches must reevaluate security of websites, content, photographs of faces, church interiors, personally identifiable information.

Exposure of the interior during live camera church activities simulcast over social networking must be properly monitored to detect suspected or actual threats and anomalies.

Inbound US mail and package deliveries must be as remote as possible to detect risk and danger posed by this venue of attack. Unattended, dropped off and left packages must be checked for the potential of IED first. It is recommended that all packages be signed for un person and or use a postal box.

Unattended items, such as backpacks, boxes, satchels, pocketbooks or unexplained filled plastic bags or others, be resolved by identifying the owner in person. If it cannot be resolved this is a suspicious unattended item and must be reported to police immediately. Along with this is IED training and detection.
