Clergy and Security Forces MUST escalate proactive and clandestine surveillance immediately at a minimum of countermeasures.

///FLASH/// SIGNIFICANT ACTIVITY (SIGACT)

22 Dec 2025 - Turkish Intelligence (MIT) captured a senior member of the Daesh (ISIS-K Khorasan) along the Afghanistan-Pakistan border, Mehmet Goren during caught in a covert operation. Little OSINT details means this operation is on-going. Media reporting seems to associate this prisoner with apparent interrogation derived actionable information which led to neutralizing major complex attacks on Christmas and potentially New Year 2026.

25 Dec 2025 - One hundred and fifteen ISIS terror suspects detained in Turkey for pre-attack planning on Christmas and New Year celebrations in the country and elsewhere. ISIS also had issued a call to action particularly against non-Muslims during Christmas and New Year's celebrations. Counterterror raid of 124 locations in Istanbul and arrested 115 of the 137 suspects they were looking for. Pistols and ammo were also seized. Anadolu said the suspect was identified as Mehmet Goren and a member of the group's Afghanistan-based Islamic State-Khorasan branch. He was caught in a covert operation and transferred to Turkey.

SIGACT NEWS AND SOCIAL MEDIA

- German police foiled an attack on a Christmas market in Bavaria on December 13, arresting an Egyptian, a Syrian, and three Moroccans. The Egyptian suspect, an imam, had called for the attack while preaching at a mosque in the Dingolfing-Landau area “using a vehicle to kill or injure as many people as possible,” authorities said. Joachim Herrmann, Bavaria’s state interior minister, described the incident as “a potentially Islamist-motivated attack.”
- A Syrian was denied entry to a Leipzig nightclub next to the Christmas market because it was full. The Syrian returned minutes later and pulled an AK-47 from his jacket. Security staff were able to tackle and disarm him after he failed to correctly insert the magazine.
- German police also arrested a 21-year-old from Central Asia on suspicion of an Islamist terror attack against a Christmas market, this time targeting “large crowds” in Magdeburg. A car rammed revelers at a Christmas market in the eastern German city of Magdeburg in December 2024, killing at least five people and injuring more than 200.
- A jihadi attack at a Christmas market in Poland was foiled. Police arrested Mateusz W., a student at the Catholic University of Lublin. “The man was very fascinated by Islam,” and “sought to establish contacts with the Islamic State,” Jacek Dobrzynski, a spokesperson for Poland’s special services, said.

Anti-Israel protests are now invading Christmas markets in Belgium.

Every week, pro-Hamas mobs march through Antwerp and Brussels, disrupting families, harassing diners, and waving flags while shouting for "resistance."

This is what Europe looks like after years of open borders and appeasement.

This is an absolutely amazing speech by an imam in Brisbane.

Holland Park Mosque Imam Uzair Akbar: “In my country, Pakistan, if non-Muslim minorities carried out a Bondi style attack, we Muslims would burn their houses and murder every person. We are a minority in Australia. Still we are walking and talking and praying in our mosques. So give credit to Australia.

We cannot allow compromise on this topic because it is detrimental to the image of Islam. Pray for this. If you know someone with radical views, speak to them. Don’t brush it under the carpet, because another monster will come out. And how many monsters will Australia tolerate?”

On one level it’s good that he passionately condemns the terrorists and openly admits that Australia is losing patience with jihadists.

But on another level it’s pretty bleak and disturbing that he frames opposition to extremism only as a pragmatic step that

In Germany, Christmas markets this year are festooned with concrete barriers and police armed with automatic rifles.

The famous Christmas market in Salzburg, Austria, now includes 33 surveillance cameras and 24-hour security guards.

It's the same story in France. Authorities in Paris have canceled the city's New Year's Eve party. Parisians will not be celebrating on the Champs-Élysées this year.

Last December a Christmas market attack in Magdeburg, Germany, left six dead; five were killed in the 2018 Christmas market attack in Strasbourg, France. This year the global terrorist group ISIS urged its followers to re-create those attacks across the West. The September 18 edition of its newsletter Al-Naba urged Muslims to target "Christians and Jews" and "kill by all means."

 BREAKING: Another church burned down in Canada.

The Island Gospel Church in Burns Lake, British Columbia just days before Christmas.

RCMP believe it was arson.

That's over 120 churches that have been now vandalized or burned down in Canada to silence of our politicians.

Arson suspected in fire that destroyed a northwest B.C. rural church

Why do Christians in Germany allow this?

Thousands of Muslim immigrants have arrived to the Christmas festivity fair in Germany to protest against the tradition, that goes against their beliefs and Islam

This is an absolutely amazing speech by an imam in Brisbane.

Holland Park Mosque Imam Uzair Akbar: “In my country, Pakistan, if non-Muslim minorities carried out a Bondi style attack, we Muslims would burn their houses and murder every person. We are a minority in Australia. Still we are walking and talking and praying in our mosques. So give credit to Australia.

We cannot allow compromise on this topic because it is detrimental to the image of Islam. Pray for this. If you know someone with radical views, speak to them. Don’t brush it under the carpet, because another monster will come out. And how many monsters will Australia tolerate?”

On one level it’s good that he passionately condemns the terrorists and openly admits that Australia is losing patience with jihadists.

But on another level it’s pretty bleak and disturbing that he frames opposition to extremism only as a pragmatic step that

This is Copenhagen, Denmark right in front of the Christmas tree in the Square.

I'm sorry this is disrespectful and just plain intimidation against Christians and Christianity.

Is anyone else not fed up of this crap now.
We NEED REMIGRATION NOW.
