Court documents show groups inspiring ‘satanist’ teenager’s alleged plans to attack Christians, By Hudson Crozier, Washington Examiner, Published September 11, 2026

EXCLUSIVE — A high schooler is facing charges in adult court after Florida prosecutors said online cultish movements helped turn him into a would-be terrorist, records show. Hillsborough County officials announced January that they arrested 14-year-old Jose Pagan for allegedly possessing child pornography and threatening a mass shooting against a nearby church. Charging documents obtained by the Washington Examiner shed more light on how police say he drifted toward anti-Christian radicalism — and a suspected arson plot that was not previously reported.

The child’s digital footprint showed his interest in a variety of groups glorifying violence and sexual abuse, such as “764” and “No Lives Matter,” according to a police affidavit. Many online communities they mentioned have been linked to other young defendants in the United States charged with similar crimes. Florida officers and the FBI are associating the groups with rising trends of “nihilistic violent extremism,” internet-fueled crimes often rooted in satanist themes and broad hatred of humanity.

Before his arrest, Pagan’s suspected Telegram account was already raising red flags for extremism researchers, who kept records of his alleged statements from a chatroom under the username “j3st3r_ov_insurr3cti0n.” Officers ended up searching Pagan’s electronic devices in his home, where he admitted in an interview to owning the Telegram account and storing sadistic child abuse material for sexual gratification, according to the affidavit.

“A satanist attacking a church, it sends a message,” the Telegram account said in January, according to chat logs obtained by the Washington Examiner. “A message that WE have not forgotten what they did to us. A message that their crimes in europe have not been forgotten.” The user also posted that “a church is a way better target” than a school, according to the police report.

Suspicious device shuts down roads, disrupts A Line service in downtown Los Angeles

A suspicious device found near the Federal Building in downtown Los Angeles left roads closed and disrupted train service Wednesday morning. This was the 200 block of East Temple Street about 11:55 p.m. Tuesday, a Los Angeles Police Department spokesperson confirmed to KTLA. All streets had reopened shortly after 5 a.m. after police determined there was no threat. No further details were immediately released about the device that caused the scare.

An anonymous caller alerted police one night last May to reports of gunfire inside the home of Supreme Court Justice Amy Coney Barrett. But when officers arrived at the residence in Fairfax, outside Washington, D.C., they found everything in order. The person who contacted authorities was most likely attempting to intimidate Barrett through a tactic known as swatting, in which a false emergency report is used to trigger a major law enforcement response that can spiral into chaos and violence. Barrett later recounted that, that evening, one of her children opened the front door to leave with friends and found the street “full of police cars.”

A report by the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts showed a 57% increase in significant security incidents recorded by the U.S. Marshals Service during fiscal year 2025, with a similar trend continuing into the current year. In recent years, those incidents have included swatting; pizza doxxing, as the anonymous food deliveries described by Barrett are known because they are meant to signal to judges that their home address is known; threats through phone calls and social media; and even, in the case of Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh, a plot to assassinate him after the 2022 leak of the decision overturning the federal constitutional right to abortion.

CSULA professor urges audience to ‘f*ck up’ ICE agent, gives his hotel address

A video has gone viral showing a California State University Los Angeles professor giving out the name and hotel address for a specific ICE agent and urging the audience repeatedly to go “f*ck him up.” Melina Abdullah, a professor of Pan-African Studies and leader in the Black Lives Matter movement, made the comments at a “La Defensa del Pueblo: A Summit to End the Terror Against the People” summit over the weekend in Los Angeles that featured a collection of leftwing activist groups.

“The killer ICE agent, who we’ve got on good authority is right down the road ... his name is Brian Palacios ... and we will show you a picture of his pig ass,” said Abdullah, giving the name and city of the hotel.

A two-minute clip of her comments was posted to X by Stu Smith, an investigative analyst at City Journal, a publication of the Manhattan Institute. Palacios was off-duty when he shot and killed a black man on New Year's Eve in a case under investigation, the Los Angeles Times reported in May.

"Some of [the victim's] friends have suggested he was shooting the weapon into the air to celebrate the new year. Federal authorities said in the immediate aftermath of the incident that the ICE agent was responding to a suspected 'active shooter' when he opened fire. Palacios' attorney has said he acted in self-defense," the newspaper reported.

Speaking to the audience, Abdullah said "sometimes it's just do this sh*t," then giving the address of the hotel. "You see the devil right there, f*ck him up. F*ck him up." encouraged the audience to "study guerrilla warfare," clarifying she meant to mess the officer up through protest tactics. She cited "powerful-ass prayer," standing on the "frontlines and putting your body on the line like it's necessary in this moment," and "giving a dollar."

Pro-Abortion Agitators May Have Broken the Law by Disrupting Catholic Mass:

The agitators rushed into Westminster Cathedral at the beginning of a Mass that preceded the March for Life in London.

"Catholics had gathered in church to pray peacefully and attend Mass for the protection of life in the U.K. Their prayers were then disrupted by members of the Feminist Strike Coalition," Jeremiah Igunnubole, legal counsel at Alliance Defending Freedom, told the Daily Signal in a statement on the incident. The Dyke Project posted videos of the disruption on Instagram, writing that "members of the Feminist Strike Coalition disrupted an anti-abortion service at Westminster Cathedral hosting the far right group March for Life." Pro-abortion agitators disrupted a Catholic Mass Saturday, standing between the congregation and the altar with a sign reading, "Pro-life? That's a lie. You don't care if people die!"

Police investigate theft of religious statues from Pueblo church: PPD

by: Kinsey Bitterman, Fox 21, Posted: Sep 10, 2026 / 05:06 PM MDT, Updated: Sep 10, 2026 / 06:12 PM MDT <https://www.fox21news.com/news/police-investigate-theft-of-religious-statues-from-pueblo-church-ppd/>

(PUEBLO, Colo.) — $6,000 worth of damage was done to church statues in Pueblo on Saturday, Sept. 5, near East 12th Street and Beaumont Street, according to the Pueblo Police Department (PPD). PPD said officers arrived at the 2700 block of East 12th Street around 9:40 a.m. on report of a traffic hazard, and officers found church statues in the road.

The PPD has surveillance footage from the church that shows five masked individuals entering the church property at 1:46 a.m. The footage showed suspects removing the statues and carrying them away from the church. One of those suspects was seen picking up a flower planter and smashing it on the ground as well.

According to the Church, two signs displaying a rendering of the temple have been spray-painted over the past two months. The latest was painted with the words “Trump is God” in red. The Church told WFAA: “We are sad and disappointed to share that a sign at the construction site of the Fairview Texas Temple for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints was vandalized. An additional sign was damaged last month...” Last September, a mosque sign in nearby McKinney was also spray-painted.

ROANOKE, Va. (WDBJ) - A Roanoke City Grand Jury has indicted a man accused of carrying out a double homicide outside a church in Feb. 2026, the Roanoke Police Department announced Wednesday. Jamal Edward Crump is accused of carrying out a double homicide from Feb. 2026. On Sept. 8, a Roanoke City Grand Jury returned true bills of indictment against Jamal Edward Crump on eight felony charges. Crump is accused of killing Khireem Jerome Porter, 25, of Radford and Jeffrie Lamont Meadows, 37, of Wytheville.

LGBT Activists Assault Pastor's Home, Cut Power, Threaten His Newborn by Name: 'They Threatened to Kill Us', Western Journal (US), By Michael Austin, September 8, 2026 at 4:00am, <https://www.westernjournal.com/lgbt-activists-assault-pastors-home-cut-power-threaten-newborn-name-threatened-kill-us>

The home of Australian pastor Andrew Sedra was reportedly attacked by multiple LGBT activists, who issued threats against the family members, including their newborn son. The pastor's X account posted security footage of the attackers, saying they cut off power to the home and tried to gain entry. "On Thursday night, 4 left-wing activists including 2 hooded individuals came to our home after our address was leaked publicly online," the post said.

"They threatened to kill us and destroy us, they cut out the electricity from our home and attempted to break in. They knew our whole family by name, including our newborn baby, mentioning him continuously."

The rejection of Christian and Republican clubs at public and private schools on each coast, by administrators and student government leaders, respectively, has sparked litigation and saber-rattling by legal groups that defend free expression in higher education. Campus Bible Fellowship sued the State University of New York's Broome Community College for denying recognition because "a personal relationship with Jesus Christ" is a leadership requirement, "preventing it from reserving campus space and accessing financial resources," the complaint says.

The college claims the leadership requirement violates its antidiscrimination rules, but its recognition conditions violate three clauses of the First Amendment – free exercise of religion, speech and assembly, according to the lawsuit, filed by Alliance Defending Freedom.

The recently-retired Bishop of Oxford, Steven Croft, told Sunday on BBC Radio 4 that the Church needed to rediscover the apocalyptic language of heaven, hell, death and judgement in response, because of the possible threat to humanity's existence.

Hugh Chichester, founder of non-profit training and upskilling network Niya AI, told Premier that it was "understandable" that there were concerns over the technology, but Christians have a unique response. He said: "The brightest lights cast the darkest shadows. There are reasons to be very hopeful and excited about parts of AI, and there's there's reasons to be cautious and maybe even anxious about the future."

Churches report rise in scams impersonating pastors

Updated: 12:44 PM EDT Sep 13, 2026. WGAL

<https://www.wgal.com/article/churches-report-rise-scams-impersonating-pastors/73635256>

Churches and ministries across the United States are experiencing a rise in identity spoofing scams, with fraudsters impersonating pastors or other trusted church leaders to target members.

Scammers use pastors' identities to request gift cards

A viewer recently shared their experience, writing, "I was almost scammed by an email that looked very much like it was coming from the pastor at my church asking for help. I'm sure this person found my email address on the church website as well as the pastor's full name. I'm so mad that I didn't realize it sooner, but I didn't buy the Target gift cards he asked me to buy for women in the hospital with cancer."

These scams often come in the form of emails or text messages that appear to be from a pastor, using urgent and emotional language to request gift cards, financial help, or sensitive information. Experts explain why churches are vulnerable

Cybersecurity experts say churches are often targeted because of their culture of trust and the public availability of contact information. They also note that many church websites lack advanced cybersecurity protections.

Experts advise that if you receive a message claiming to be from a church official, do not respond without verifying its authenticity. They also recommend that church leaders proactively inform their congregations about how they will and will not communicate with members.

"This is not a new scam—and it's not the biggest scam out there—but it continues to circulate, so be prepared to deal with it," said consumer investigator Brian Roche.

The image shows a Facebook post on a dark background. At the top left are the X and Facebook icons. The post itself is a white rectangular area containing a political poster. The poster has the headline "YOUR LEADERS CAN'T PROTECT YOU" in large, bold, black capital letters at the top. Below the headline is a black and white photograph of a massive explosion or fire, likely the World Trade Center towers on 9/11. At the bottom of the poster, the headline "BUT THEY CAN GET YOU KILLED" is written in the same large, bold, black capital letters. Below the headline is a block of small, justified text. At the very bottom of the poster, there are several lines of text, including "for further investigation : www.infoshop.org • www.indymedia.org/peace • www.crimethink.com". To the right of the poster, there is a comment thread. The first comment is from "To Change Everything" and says: "As soon as the attacks occurred on September 11, 2001, we designed this poster and began circulating it. We knew the attacks on the United States didn't come out of nowhere. And as the patriots waved their flags, we knew that it wouldn't be long before there were hundreds of thousands more dead. Although the wars that followed September 11, 2001 did eventually put Saddam Hussein out of a job—enabling the Islamic State to emerge in his wake—the fact that the Taliban remain... See more". Below this comment are icons for likes, comments, and shares, with counts of 308, 30, and 140 respectively. There are also icons for "Most relevant" and "View 1 reply". Below the first comment are two more comments. The second comment is from "Morg Gaskin" and says: "I remember when passing this when I was a young, impressionable anarchist. Having lived in the house up on the hill in Olympia... See more". The third comment is from "Torben Gielbert" and says: "Was reading Work this morning in honor of the holiday". Below these comments are icons for likes, comments, and shares, with counts of 1, 1, and 1 respectively. At the bottom of the comment thread is a "Write a comment..." input field with icons for emojis, GIFs, and photos.

YOUR LEADERS CAN'T PROTECT YOU

BUT THEY CAN GET YOU KILLED

After the tragic events of September 11, some US citizens can no longer afford to be ignorant of the details of US foreign policy. Our lives are at stake.

The CIA & Democrats have admitted that Osama Bin Laden was paid, armed, and trained through them. This is not an isolated incident; it is typical of US foreign policy. Our government supplied the Iraqi government with weapons and military aid throughout the 1990s, only to kill over one million Iraqi citizens with bombs and sanctions a few years later; we still support dictatorship across the globe and disregard the human rights of any who are perceived to endanger the profits of our corporations. Our government and the business interests it serves have created an atmosphere of international terror, which has finally reached our own shores. Harsh and violent like this, do not just appear out of the air, it builds momentum on the day of the summer suggested, they are encouraged by the arrogant and exclusive policies of our politicians and executives, whose wealth and indulgence almost are now very much our business.

Bombings won't kill terrorists any more than they served to put Saddam Hussein out of a job, but they do kill people, whether or not you see them do on your television. Every innocent person affected by the bombs we drop, die and we provide to opposing governments, the reputation we condone, becomes another potential terrorist. Save lives, once again and in time—take your point out of the back of the politicians and the summer they miss. Let them know they can't count on your silence.

"It is the duty of the patriot to protect his country from its government."
—Thomas Paine

As soon as the attacks occurred on September 11, 2001, we designed this poster and began circulating it.

We knew the attacks on the United States didn't come out of nowhere.

And as the patriots waved their flags, we knew that it wouldn't be long before there were hundreds of thousands more dead.

Although the wars that followed September 11, 2001 did eventually put Saddam Hussein out of a job—enabling the Islamic State to emerge in his wake—the fact that the Taliban remain... See more

We didn't give Saddam weapons. He got his weapons from the Soviets and the French.

TRAFFIC LIGHT PROTOCOL REQUIREMENTS FOR DISSEMINATION

Traffic Light Protocol (TLP) Definitions

Color	When should it be used?	How may it be shared?
 TLP:RED For the eyes and ears of individual recipients only, no further disclosure.	Sources may use TLP:RED when information cannot be effectively acted upon without significant risk for the privacy, reputation, or operations of the organizations involved.	Recipients may therefore not share TLP:RED information with anyone else. In the context of a meeting, for example, TLP:RED information is limited to those present at the meeting.
 TLP:AMBER Limited disclosure, recipients can only spread this on a need-to-know basis within their organization and its clients. Note that TLP:AMBER+STRICT restricts sharing to the organization only.	Sources may use TLP:AMBER when information requires support to be effectively acted upon, yet carries risk to privacy, reputation, or operations if shared outside of the organizations involved.	Recipients may share TLP:AMBER information with members of their own organization and its clients, but only on a need-to-know basis to protect their organization and its clients and prevent further harm. Note: if the source wants to restrict sharing to the organization only, they must specify TLP:AMBER+STRICT.
 TLP:GREEN Limited disclosure, recipients can spread this within their community.	Sources may use TLP:GREEN when information is useful to increase awareness within their wider community.	Recipients may share TLP:GREEN information with peers and partner organizations within their community, but not via publicly accessible channels. TLP:GREEN information may not be shared outside of the community. Note: when “community” is not defined, assume the cybersecurity/defense community.
 TLP: CLEAR Recipients can spread this to the world, there is no limit on disclosure.	Sources may use TLP:CLEAR when information carries minimal or no foreseeable risk of misuse, in accordance with applicable rules and procedures for public release.	Subject to standard copyright rules, TLP:CLEAR information may be shared without restriction.
